Headline:
Long sunny spells, with thundery showers throughout the day.

Today:
A day of sunshine and showers. Showers starting early and continuing through the day, getting heavier in the afternoon, with thunder in places. Winds blustery throughout the whole region, although feeling warm in the sunshine, and out of the wind. Maximum temperature 20 deg C (68 deg F).

Tonight:
Showers and cloud cover clearing through the evening, with blustery winds easing a little. Further showers reaching Cornwall in the early morning, but staying mostly dry with long clear spells. Minimum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Saturday:
A band of showery rain will move eastwards through the morning with brighter skies and a few more showers following from the west. Drier later. Winds blustery. Maximum temperature 20 deg C (68 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Sunshine and showers, some heavy and potentially thundery, through Sunday. Monday and Tuesday seeing progressively drier periods, although showers still possible in the afternoons, especially on Monday.
